

Create Your Financial Future Story

Pima County Ending Poverty Now and Interfaith Community Services are offering

Financial Education

How Does it Work?

- Eligible participants attend a 10 week course, plus graduation at the end
- Led by caring and capable instructors

"I really liked that it was very holistic. It was not just information, but also relaxation techniques. Different things that you could do and talking about emotions and the fact that it was normal for people to get anxious over these things."

-Fall 2022 Graduate

Next class: Starts Wednesday, January 24, 2024. The class will be on Wednesday evenings from 5:30 PM - 7:30 PM for 10 weeks.

What are students learning about?

These topics are key to establishing a financial foundation

Getting Organized. Organization is the key to getting a financial household in order. Students investigate how to get organized, keep good records, how to choose and keep a checking account without fees/fines.

Learning Where Your Money Goes.

Understanding where and why you spend money is critical to future goals. Investigate how to keep track of expenses and take steps to developing a spending plan.

Why Some People Pay Higher Interest.

Understand how credit works and why interest rates matter.

Credit Reports. Running a credit report is the first step to understanding how to improve your credit score. You'll take a careful look at your own report and discover how to improve it.

Credit Repair. Credit repair can help you improve your financial future and you'll learn how to get started.

Borrowing and Saving. Savings turn dreams into reality. Learn about saving as well as how to borrow safely.

Bankruptcy and Financial Predators. Students gather information on bankruptcy and its effects as well as on how to avoid financial predators.

Additionally, students learn about the advantages and disadvantages of school loans, their rights as consumers, taxes, and the Earned Income Tax Credit.

Renting or Owning a Home.

Most of us dream of becoming homeowners, but there is much work that must be done first.

Students examine different programs in the community and investigate if they are ready to take on the financial responsibility that comes with owning a home.

Every class has financial mentors who can help you achieve your financial success!
